

Hidden Creek Farm Regenerative Farming Livestock Internship

Hidden Creek Farm LLC (HCF) is a Humane-and-Organic-Certified Regenerative conservation farm located 50 minutes from Washington, D.C. We believe that SOIL is our primary asset. Our focus is to improve the health of our SOIL, resulting in exceptional nutritional value of HCF produce and proteins. We believe that agricultural success and the production of nutrient-dense foods depend on using livestock and plants adapted to the specific local environment of any given location. We believe that food has a 'terroir', just like wine, based on the composition of the SOIL. Local ~ Wholesome ~ Good is our tagline, and we manage diligently to that goal. Regenerative Farming in Harmony with Nature is our passion. We hope to inspire others to carry this philosophy forward into their own lives.

Goals:

This Internship is based on an Experiential Learning Model (ELM) which promotes Learning-Through-Doing-And-Reflection. Experiential Learning is considered one of the most effective ways for people, and adults in particular, to retain information and create meaning. The goal is to help you translate the 'Theory' you read into the 'Practice' you can apply to your own path in the future.

Overview:

In addition to general and breed-specific livestock care, you will learn about the benefits and challenges of rotational grazing, how to select animals for commercial and/or breeding operations (seed stock), and how to optimize grazing and care for each type of animal within a breed (for example cow-calf vs breeding vs stocker pasture needs). Regenerative Livestock Management (RLM) is, in fact, about Regenerative Pasture Management (RPM). You will work closely with Team members to 'read' pastures for optimal grazing, carbon capture, and water cycle management across seasons. You must select a final project and create a deliverable about that project for HCF prior to completing your Internship.

As a Livestock Intern you will

- Feed, water, handle, and move livestock
- Assist with general care of livestock, such as vaccination, hoof trims, birthing, etc.
- Daily egg collection and cleaning
- Assist with record keeping and admin associated with livestock
- Prep, staff, and assist or manage Farmer's Markets weekly during season
- Attend and update Team at weekly Team meetings
- Complete an 'end-of-Internship' deliverable for HCF and Team
- Other duties as assigned

Requirements and Expectations:

This Internship requires active fieldwork and that ability to spend dedicated time outside in every-changing weather. Interns must be fit, able to lift heavy items, and move without difficulty. Farming is the constant stewardship of our ecosystem and does not follow a 9-5 schedule. This Internship is designed to give you a realistic appreciation and understanding of what it takes to bring products into the marketplace and put food on the table. It assumes a 6-day week that typically runs from 7 a.m. -3:30 p.m. Monday – Tues, with some variation if you are assigned to a Sunday market. Field trips and approved classes 'off-farm' will be considered part of the internship and will require a writeup to share with the HCF Team.

Application Schedule & Compensation:

Internship Applications open on December 1st of each year and follow a rolling application.

Interns committing to 3 months or less will receive $100/week plus $50/week farm product. Interns committing to 9 months to a year will be paid $10/hour if they reside on farm (limited shared housing is available) or $12/hour if they commute. Interns meeting or exceeding expectations may receive a bonus based on their length of stay and performance. Interns may be offered an Apprenticeship upon their 9-month review.

Other:

HCF is a tobacco-free and substance-free farm. Smoking, vaping, tobacco product use, and drugs, including cannabis or CBT, are not allowed. Any Intern found to be abusing these rules will be asked to leave immediately due to misconduct.
